

Roberta Dewey — one of the Daily Press' Most Inspiring Women 2009, is a founder and tireless supporter of the Transition Habitat Conservancy.

Photo by Jill Bays

Roberta Dewey, a dedicated founder of the Transition Habitat Conservancy, selected as one of the Daily Press 2009 Most Inspiring Women, was honored at a May 5 luncheon and awards ceremony at the Hilton Conference Center in Victorville. Plaques were given by First District Supervisor Brad Mitzelfelt, who was unable to attend the luncheon. Assemblymen Steve Knight and Anthony Adams also presented Certificates of Recognition. Congratulations go to Roberta for all she does for preservation of open space for the enjoyment of passive recreation for all.